ORGANISATION OF STUDY

WELCOMING INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Autograf's teaching and administrative teams are accessible, attentive and always available to advise and support international students in their course of study.

An international relations department, dedicated to international students, is here to help you with your application procedures and advise you on your choice of course.

When arriving in France, we'll set up a meeting to personally welcome you, complete the administrative enrollment procedures, visit the school, present your course, and guide you through your first steps in France.

To facilitate arrival and settlement of international students, Autograf has signed partnerships with student residences groups for accommodation, and a service that supports students to help them for all procedures before and after their arrival in Paris.

Learning French while studying

On top of Autograf's dedicated FLE programs (French as a Foreign Language + Art + Design), students can follow additional French language classes while completing their Bachelor's or Master's Degree. That way, students can better follow their classes and prepare for their final oral exams or write their dissertation.

CREATE A PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

All programs at Autograf give you the opportunity to have a professional experience through internship.

Each student will complete from 4 weeks to several months of internship depending on the programs. This compulsory internship gives the student the opportunity to be in contact with professional reality, and it facilitates their future integration into working life.

At Autograf we believe that a professional experience is a true tool for each student, allowing them to practice their knowledge in a real work environment, but also being part of projects that will add content to their portfolio and resume for their future career.

Students will also have the possibility to choose work-study courses. Which will allow students to study and work at the same time. They will spend one week in school every 2 or 3 weeks and the rest of the time will be spent working for the company that hired them.

It has real benefits, such as a professional experience to add to your resume, reduction of tuition fees and payment of a salary.

To be able to do work-study courses, international students must have completed some criteria to be able to sign a contract, but this is accessible to them in particular from their second year of study.

The school is here to help you in your research of companies. With 40 years of experience, Autograf has a large network of partner companies, and our team will support you throughout the process of finding an internship or a company.

The workshops

The students in the 1st year of Bachelor Design program achieve four weeks of workshops during the year with the students of 2nd and 3rd year.

Based around a common theme, the teams, led by design professionals, are invited to produce a performance

This workshop is essential for networking within the school, and is also a practical way to consider career choices while learning about project management through first-hand experience in an agency.

Agency work : team work

In the second year of the Master's program, students are invited to work in team.

Each agency-team defines its visual identity and philosophy, then answers to a minimum of three briefs from real life clients.

The students approach all aspects of a project: design, implementation, financial management, production on adapted media, planning, team management etc.
